EDITORIAL.

THE line which we have inserted in the heading used above, was suggested by Mr. Edward B. Lowd, of Salem, and we hope that it will "explain the object of this magazine to those who don't know of volapük." Every practicable suggestion tending to increase the usefulness of VOLASPODEL will be adopted and thanks and credit given to its originator.

THE able series of lessons prepared by Colonel Chas. E. Sprague, is completed in this number and we have no doubt that many availed themselves of this opportunity to study volapük. At this juncture, we take the opportunity to announce that we have reserved a few complete sets of the numbers of this volume which we will have bound in cloth and ready for delivery on November 1st, 1893. They will be sent postpaid to any address for Two Dollars.

Those who have heard of volapük at the World's Fair at Chicago and desire to study it, those who have studied it and desire an incomparable reading book, should order their copies at once. Every liberal volapükian would do his duty by securing a copy of this volume for the Public Library of his town—there is where the great mass of thinking people will see it and learn to appreciate the advantages of volapük, thus swelling more rapidly the ever-growing contingent of its supporters.

VOLAPÜK does not lack defenders and new evidence that they can wield the pen trenchantly is furnished to us by Mr. Ferd. Nehls, New Braunfels, Texas, in his German article written for the Vorwärts. He has told the truth clearly, and nothing but the truth, about the aims, the objects and the progress of the language ; he has offered names and addresses and statistics, not mere words, in his answer to an unknown and ignorant correspondent and in support of his claim that volapük is a lively corpse. The scathing rebuke which he administers seems well-deserved. Wherever a false newspaper report is seen, the universal language idea demands that it be contradicted at once by volapükists ; it demands that the truth be told—volapük is slowly but surely progressing.

WORLD INTERNATIONAL LANGUAGE CLUB.

IN a short editorial, we promised to publish the following plan for such an organization which the originator has wisely determined to call the "American Plan," in preference to any other designation :

*Sozi(alist)an. Schleyer V. Sozialist, socialist.

To all friends of Volapük :

Our experience with, and knowledge of the history and propagation of volapük have firmly convinced us that the world not only needs an international language now, but it fully realizes that it so needs it.

We are firmly convinced that the many strong and willing hands who have previously borne the burden of the propagation of volapük will gladly join again for the purpose of propagating a world-language if they can feel assured that the friends of the world-language are determined to make one decided effort together and in harmony to secure the realization of this idea.

Without wishing to detract from the great merit of J. M. Schleyer, datuval volapüka, we are firmly convinced that no world-language can ever hope to meet adoption while it is in the power of any one man or any clique of men to arbitrarily change its fundamental principles, and we are as firmly convinced that quite general adoption can readily be secured for a world-language which shall have the sure cordial support of at least one million of those who have studied volapük, if this be firmly established on a basis agreed upon by those who studied world-language projects.

We propose then that every friend of a world-language send to—— one half dollar, American money, or 2 marks, 3 francs or 3 lire, and with it :

1. An agreement to abide by the decision of a three-fifths majority to be obtained as hereinafter indicated.
2. An agreement to aid, in all proper and reasonable ways not involving pecuniary loss, of the language to be selected, for the period of five years.
3. An agreement to countenance no change or innovation in the language selected, unless such change or innovation shall have been first adopted by the representatives of the W. I. L. C. (World International Language Club.)
4. The name of the person whom they wish to choose as their representative in the first Congress of the Club. Every person who sends such fee, etc., to be known as a member of the W. I. L. C., and entitled to representation and no other persons shall be members nor entitled to representation, and each such person shall receive a consecutively numbered ticket which shall be their certificate of membership.

From the total number of names chosen as representatives—shall select from the names in each country having the highest number of votes, one person as representative for each—members from each country. Such names, with their addresses, to be published in all volapük papers, and in such other papers as will publish them. After each person so chosen shall have publicly agreed to faithfully carry out the ascertained wishes of their constituents regardless of their own personal preferences up to the point of adoption by a World-Congress or their ad-interim executive committee, and then to faithfully carry out the wishes of the majority.

After the names of the representatives shall have been published, and no person should be a representative who is not a member, the several members may send to the representatives from their country a concise statement of their opinions, wishes and suggestions, looking to the realization of the world-language idea.

— with the aid of such persons as he may designate, to the number of at least one from each of the larger countries to be a committee of arrangements for the first congress to be held in — in —, 189 , to arrange a programme for the meetings, and generally to consolidate for presentation to the congress the ascertained opinions, wishes, and suggestions of the W. I. L. C., and to provide that no one except representatives of the press shall be admitted to the meetings of the congress without a regular certificate of membership. It being distinctly understood that there is to be no one man power in the movement, and no deadheads.

We believe that with such an organization, on such a basis of representation and equality would unite all the friends of world-language projects, and that no faction which would be left out of this movement would have influence enough to retard this movement or to propagate a rival, and we believe that some one project should be allowed a fair trial on its merits.

Let us be up and doing.

PROGRESSIV LESSONS IN VOLAPÜK.

*With especial reference to commercial correspondence.**

By CHARLES E. SPRAGUE.

LESSON XIV.—Concluded.

126. Valikos, everything; os added to an adjective gives it a noun-meaning. Gudikos means something good, the good. If we say "take the bitter with the sweet," the words bitter and sweet, which usually are adjectives, take an abstract noun-meaning, which is "that-which-is-bitter," "that-which-is-sweet." In Vp. we should say "sumolöd biedikosi ko svidakos." Everything is equivalent to "the all," or "all." It is customary (in the theatre and in novels) to say "I know all" for "I know everything." No-löb valikosi. But specially notice that this indefinite noun in os follows the rule of § 107, and takes a verb in os. Valikos poplänos, not poplänom. The little words bos, something, kis, what? and nos nothing, are similarly used. Kis ejenos? What has happened? nos ejenos, nothing has happened. Bos ojenos; something will happen. So, too, atos, this [thing], etos, that [thing] otos, the same [thing]. Kis binos atos? What is this?

127. It is a great advantage in volapük that words are derived regularly one from another, so that one radical or primitive word gives you the key to a great many other words, derivatives. In English this is often not the case. There is nothing about the word feline to suggest cat, and nothing of dog in canine; ichthyology or ornithology have to be simply memorized, for there is nothing to tell us that they refer to fishes and birds. But in volapük he who has learnt the words kat, dog, fit, böd, cannot fail to understand and remember katik, dogik, fitav, bödav. I must, therefore, tell you something about how words are formed in Volapük.

128. Some of this knowledge you have already. You know that ik forms adjectives ; that -ön forms verbs ; that -el forms a noun denoting the doer (§97), and -an is the person who is connected with something (§96) ; that -o forms adverbs ; that -am is like our -ation ; that -id with a number is like -th as kilsetelid, thirty-twoth —I beg pardon, thirty-second ; that -ul is a month ending ; and perhaps some other formatives.

129. Now, I will give you some other useful endings. I cannot give all, but the grammars and dictionaries have full lists.

-öp, a place, Kluböp, meeting room of a society, Malädöp, hospital or infirmary (maläd, sickness). Tidöp, classroom.

-üp, a time: Tidüp, lesson-time. Cilüp, childhood.

-al, an official takes the place of -el or -an when it is an official title. Thus spodel is a correspondent, any one who corresponds ; spodal is one who has the title of Correspondent by examination.

af, names of animals ; -it, of birds ; -äf, of flowers ; -in, of substances ; -ip, of diseases.

-av is like -ology. Godav, theology ; pükav, philology ; nimav, zoology ; gletav, mathematics ; kalav, arithmetic ; bukamav, accountics.

-äl is a mental or spiritual quality. Ladäl, cordiality ; filäl, fiery nature ; stupäl, stupidity.

-öf is like -ity or -ness. Flenöf, friendliness ; neflenöf, enmity.

-ot is something made or done, a product or result of an action. Givot is a gift ; givam, the act of giving. Penam is writing, the action : penot is a writing, something written.

-il is a diminutive, for which in English we sometimes use a different word, sometimes the endings -ling, -kin, -et. Gan, goose ; ganil, gosling. Dogil, puppy ; katil, kitten. Zif, town ; zifil, little town.

130. The ending -ü which appears in the word sesumü is a very remarkable one. It makes prepositions which in English we often have to translate by prepositional phrases, putting one preposition before and another after the noun. Kod means cause, reason ; kodü means by reason of ; kodü maläd, by reason of sickness. Nemü means in the name of ; nemü reg, in the name of the king. Tim, the time ; timü, in the time of. Sesum, the exception ; sesumü, with the exception of, or briefly, except. Gön, favor ; günü, in favor of.

131. There are other syllables, prefixed to words to vary their signification. Many of these are in themselves significant words, like bevü, between, se, out ; some others are inseparable. Le, very is such a one which has already been explained. There is also ne, which means not, like our English prefixes un-, in-, non-. Klinik, clean ; neklinik, unclean. Saunik, healthy ; nesaunik, unhealthy. Det, right [hand] ; nedet, left [hand].

132. Some prefixes are contractions of words. Smalik, is small : Sma- is used as a prefix, for something similar but smaller. Bed, bed, smabed, nest ; bel, mountain, smabel, hill. So gle- is contracted from gletik, large ; mö-, (poly-) from mödik, many.

133. Besides adding syllables to the beginning and end, there is another way of forming new words ; by compounding one from two others. Volapük itself is an example of this ; world-language from vol and pük. But why a? Because it is language of the world. Generally the first part of a compound is in the kimafal, like this instance but not always. For example, Schleyer gives volisev, not volasev, for knowledge of the world : because the world is the object of the action of knowing. But this is a change, which has not been acquiesced in by all the authorities.

133. I shall now close this series of lessons. Probably most of you, certainly many, have in the meantime pursued the systematic study of the language in the regular text-books ; those who have not done so will find it very interesting. All, I hope, have been led to think of our own language and its peculiarities. Until we compare it with some other language, we do not know that English has peculiarities ; but when we know these peculiarities we can use it with much more efficiency.
